

AI as Your Procurement Co-Pilot

A hands-on build day for public procurement professionals who want practical AI workflows. Not theory. Not hype.

DATE	LOCATION	FORMAT	REGISTRATION
Thursday, Aug 13, 2026	Garden City, ID or Virtual	Full-day · Hands-on	$200 / person

WHAT YOU WILL BUILD

AI-assisted intake-to-award workflow with documented human approval gates

Prompt stacks for intake, scope development, solicitation drafting, QA, and documentation

Red-team review prompts to catch ambiguity, risk, and evaluation gaps before release

A 30-day pilot plan with measurable outcomes and records that hold up to scrutiny

WORKSHOP FOCUS

Better intake & cleaner scopes

Fewer addenda & less rework

Clearer solicitation language

Evaluation support, no auto-scoring

Documentation that holds up

Policy & compliance at the center

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Procurement officers, buyers, analysts, managers, contract staff, department liaisons, and public-sector leaders who want practical AI workflows without handing professional judgment to a machine.

Agency AI restrictions? No problem. You will still gain the skills to build practical workflows for personal productivity and professional development, ensuring you are prepared to lead when your agency is ready to adopt these tools.

Not an AI hype session. You will work through real public procurement use cases, learn where AI helps and where it must stay in its lane, and keep professional judgment, policy compliance, and public trust at the center of every decision.

Bring your laptop. Bring your messiest procurement problems. Leave with tools you can use before you land back home.
